

5 OUT OF 4 PATTERNS

Sewing School: Full Bicep Adjustment
for a Raglan Sleeve

1. Mark seam allowance.

2. Draw a line across the pattern at it widest point.

3. Find the center of line #2 and draw a perpendicular line from the top to the bottom of the pattern piece.

5 OUT OF 4 PATTERNS

Sewing School: Full Bicep Adjustment for a Raglan Sleeve

4. Wearing your raglan muslin, measure from seam allowance to the edge of your shoulder.

5. Take the above measurement and measure down the center line of pattern piece from the seam allowance and mark.

6. Draw a line from seam allowance to seam allowance.

5 OUT OF 4 PATTERNS

Sewing School: Full Bicep Adjustment for a Raglan Sleeve

7. Beginning at seam allowance where the shoulder line(line #4) meets draw a diagonal line to the center of line #2. Repeat on the other side.

8. Repeat on the other side.

9. Cut from from the bottom of line 3 to the center of line to and stop.

5 OUT OF 4 PATTERNS

Sewing School: Full Bicep Adjustment for a Raglan Sleeve

10. Cut line 2 to the left and right. Do NOT cut through edge of pattern. Stop about 1/8 inch from the edge

11. From center of line #2 cut up each diagonal line(#5). Stop about 1/8 inch from edge of patter

12. Bring the bottom of the sleeve together and secure with tape.

13. Spread the pattern piece apart at the cut intersection the amount necessary and secure with tape. The upper and lower pieces will overlap. (It is always to make a muslin/sample to determine how much room need be added to ensure proper fit.)

5 OUT OF 4 PATTERNS

Sewing School: Full Bicep Adjustment for a Raglan Sleeve

14. Tape scrap paper to the back of adjusted pattern piece. You will notice there is slight dip at the top center of the sleeve cap. Use the paper and a marker to round out the dip.

15. You will also notice that the bottom of the sleeve is slightly raised in the center. Use the scrap paper to level the bottom of the sleeve from side to side.

Here's the final pattern piece!

